All Saints

The Feast of All Saints is celebrated by the Christian Church on 01 November, when we remember that company of men and women of all times who have poured out their lives for the benefit of others. But who are the saints? And why should we bother to know about their lives?

Many of course, are those to whom churches are dedicated – in this group of Anglican parishes we have St Clement, St Mary, St Matthew, St Nicholas, St Peter and St Paul. Each of them has their own story. We're inclined to think of them as heroic people who did extraordinary things; or as people who suffered a great deal and were somehow gifted or good,

What we then forget is that, in general, saints are people like us – they struggled to know themselves better, to be more kind and loving, more self-accepting, less neurotic. They didn't always succeed; they thought their attempts to live with integrity would make them closer to other people and to God. Often, what they discovered was that other people became harder to love, and that God simply disappeared. Yet, they kept up the struggle.

In our materialistic and agnostic age, do the saints still matter? In many ways they do because they are men and women who share our concerns about life today, money, politics, the environment. We are among the saints; we belong to a great tradition which has preceded us and which will succeed us.

This festival of All Saints is a wonderful catch-all event, because it is intended to celebrate those saints who never made it onto the A-list or even the B-list, but who share, with us, in the great company of all the saints. There could be one next to you!

All In The Month of October

It was:

500 years ago: on 31 Oct 1517 th German priest and theologian Martin Luther is said to have posted his Ninety-Five Theses on the door of All Saints' Church in Wittenberg, triggering the start of the Protestant Reformation.

175 years ago: on 20 Oct 1842 that Grace Darling, British heroine, died. She had famously rescued survivors of a shipwreck off Northumberland in 1838. She and her father used a rowing boat as the sea was too rough for the lifeboat. (She dies of tuberculosis, aged 26.)

100 years ago: on 12 Oct 1917 that WWI's Third Battle of Ypres took place, the First Battle of Passchendaele, in Belgium. It was a German defensive victory, but a costly battle on both sides. Anzac forces suffered heavy losses.

90 years ago: on 06 Oct 1927 that the US premiere of the film 'The Jazz Singer' took place. It was the first full-length film with synchronised dialogue and marked the beginning of the sound era.

65 years ago: on 06 Oct 1952 that the world premiere of Agatha Christie's play 'The Mousetrap' took place in Nottingham. It opened in London on 25 November 1952 and is still running, making it the world's longest-running play. It has been performed more than 25,000 times.

60 years ago: on 10 Oct 1957 that the Windscale nuclear reactor in Cumbria caught fire. The Windscale (now Sellafield) fire spread radioactive contamination over the UK and Europe. It was the worst nuclear accident in British history and is thought to have caused hundreds of cancers.

50 years ago: on 25 Oct 1967 that an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease began on a farm in Oswestry, Shropshire. It spread rapidly, with 2,228 confirmed cases throughout the north-west Midlands and north Wales. By the time it had been brought under control in June 1968, 400,000 animals had been slaughtered.

30 years ago: on 15 Oct 1987 that the Great Storm hit southern England. Hurricane-force winds killed 18 people and caused £2billion worth of damage. 15 million trees were lost. Weather forecasters were criticised for failing to predict the severity of the storm.

25 years ago: on 13 Oct 1992 that the British Government announced that 31 of the country's 50 remaining deep coal mines would close by March 1993, putting 31,000 miners out of work. Six mines were closed immediately.

20 years ago: on 13 Oct 1997 that PM Tony Blair met Sinn Fein President Gerry Adams in Belfast. He was the first Prime Minister to meet Sinn Fein's leadership since David Lloyd George in the 1920s.

Summer At Ingoldmells Church

It has been a very busy summer at Ingoldmells Church. Every Wednesday there has been the regular coffee shop in the church, attended by a number of holiday makers. It is interesting to see the friendships that have built up over the years that this coffee shop has been running.

At the beginning of the summer season a decision was taken to have a coffee shop and table top sale in the church hall every Saturday morning rather than just having the coffee shop in the church. This has meant a lot of hard work for a small group of people, making cakes, sandwiches, setting up and manning stalls and of course just being there every week and encouraging residents from Ingoldmells to support the event.

It is amazing to see so many people sitting down and enjoying a very warm welcome and chatting to each other and having fun.

A big thank you is given to all those who have made this such a huge success. If anyone would like to help or would like a table, please contact Anne or John on 01754 873896.

On 15 July St. Francis Church, Cleethorpes visited Ingoldmells for their summer outing. Any spare places were taken by the other four churches in the Cleethorpes area.

Their plan had been to attend a service and then go to Gibraltar Point for the afternoon but St. Swithen's Day left no one disappointed and it poured with rain at lunch time so everyone stayed in church to eat their packed lunch.

They were extremely pleased with the warmth of the welcome and the hospitality provided by Ingoldmells Church, including a guided tour of the church to learn some of its history and that of Ingoldmells.

The rain stopped enough to enable them to go to Gibraltar Point for the afternoon where they had a talk about the Reserve and time for a short walk or refreshments in the Visitor Centre before heading home.

St. Francis would like to offer the same hospitality for the churches in this Benefice and suggested we had an outing to Cleethorpes next year.

News From Skegness Town Council

Pluvial Flooding and Who to Contact?

What on earth is pluvial flooding I hear you ask? Pluvial flooding is rain related flooding which you may refer to as surface flooding. Pluvial flooding occurs when you have an extremely heavy downpour that the drainage system cannot absorb. It is important that you report any pluvial/surface flooding to Lincolnshire County Council as well as Anglian Water. At the moment surface flooding is not always being reported to LCC. If they are not aware of the problem areas in Skegness, they won't be able to take action to remedy this problem in the future.

Skegness Town Council understands that it can sometimes be difficult for residents to find out who is the responsible authority to deal with each issue. They know they need to report it to 'the Council' but which one? Is it East Lindsey District Council, Lincolnshire County Council or Skegness Town Council? It may be helpful to look at our webpage <http://www.skegness.gov.uk/council-services.html>, this explains which authority is responsible for which service. You can also give us a call and we will be happy to direct you to the correct authority.

Remembrance Parade

The Remembrance Parade is a very important act of remembrance in which the Council takes great pride in being involved. Organising this year's parade on Sunday 12 November 2017 has been a hot topic at Council due to increased regulations on events and a lack of available police resource to marshal and support the parade. At times, it looked as though the parade might be in jeopardy. However, due to the community coming together, the organisation of the parade is now back on track, although the route has had to change to avoid the one-way system and make a sustainable route for the future. A special thank you goes to the Carnival Committee for loaning the signs for the parade, Empreo Security for helping to marshal the event and Hildreds Centre for use of their yard in which to form up. The Council is still looking for volunteers to help on the day at the road closures. If you think you can help please contact the office tel: 01754 766113. Training and support will be given.

Jo Blogs! Jo Wheeler

If you're ever stuck for an icebreaker, a conversation starter, just start with 'Oh, parking,' and let the complaints begin. At that point, you can collect your hat and coat, leave the premises, enjoy a four course meal at an eatery close by, including coffee and liqueurs and STILL be back in time for closing arguments.

But we actually escape very lightly here. In many other parts of the country, regulations are truly baffling. I have, on numerous occasions, photographed the meter, the sign, the ticket, in the hope of being right. On one memorable occasion, I called the police at 11pm to check that I wasn't contravening any bylaws. They weren't best pleased to hear from me. And I still wasn't sure that I'd find my car there in the morning. I live in fear, not only of the police seizing my car, but also my computer – goodness only what they'd make of my proliferation of photographic parking material!

In central London, you can easily bankrupt yourself by paying the congestion charge, but please don't think of stopping the car and leaving it. You'd need to sell your parents, your children and put the extra on a credit card to do so! And if you're not back in time, your car will be returned to you in a small metal package that you can take home on the train. Assuming you can pay the cost of having your car crushed to such a convenient size. Maybe they ask for 5p for the plastic bag as well.

In this part of Lincolnshire, we're very lucky! Charges are reasonable and easy to understand. The introduction of the new £1 coin must have worried many, but, and I hesitate to mention, there's an app for that. If you're not inclined to carry around sufficient gold ingots to guarantee a day's parking, you can do it via your phone. I seriously wish there were some standardisation for this. I currently have MiPermit, JustPark, Parkopedia, PaybyPhone, Phone and Pay, Parkmobile and Pago de estacionamiento (OK, the last isn't so useful) sucking up memory on my phone.

But parts of Lincolnshire have more idiosyncratic parking to enjoy. For some, charges only apply in summer, but winter is free, or reduced. There's an array of passes available, which allow you to freely abandon your car in a variety of places, which, if you pursue an active parking life, is probably well worth your while.

But, in all my travelling across and around the country, the parking prize has to go to Burgh le Marsh market place! I had reason to be there recently, espied the meter and gathered my wits to assimilate the parking information on offer. Apparently leaving your car there is free of charge, no money required, is bereft of all monetary input. BUT parking without a ticket will leave you open to a fine. Never in the history of all parking rules have I ever been so baffled! Scurry I did, into the nearest shop to see if they could shed any light on this conundrum. True so! At the time of writing, parking in Burgh le Marsh marketplace is free gratis. But neglect the costless ticket and you could leave yourself open to prosecution. Dear reader, I'll park that one with you, meanwhile a rabbit hole beckons!

St Matthew's Advent Wreath Festival

Autumn is now upon us and winter beckons; hopefully those cold dark days of winter are a long way off but it won't be long before they keep telling us there are only so many days until Christmas. And so at St Matthew's our thoughts turn to Advent and the annual Advent Wreath Festival which has become a popular event on our calendar.

This year will be the sixth Advent Wreath Festival at St Matthew's. Each year we aim to have a bigger and better festival. The idea is that we hang wreaths in the church depicting businesses and organisations. We hope you will use your creative minds and come up with some very original wreaths. The cost of displaying a wreath is a suggested donation of £10 – a cheap way of advertising your business.

We also have a memory section – why not make a wreath in memory of a loved one?

There is always a lot happening in St Matthew's during December with Carol Services, Concerts and Christmas Services as well as the usual Sunday Services, Pop In Cafes and Messy Church; make this a unique opportunity to show off your business.

If you wish to display a wreath at the festival please fill in the form below and return with your donation to the Parish Secretary, St Matthew's Church, Lumley Avenue, Skegness, PE25 2AT by Friday 17 November. Cheques should be made payable to Skegness and Winthorpe PCC. Or email that you wish to display a wreath to: info@skegness-anglican.org.uk and pay when you deliver your wreath.

October Word Search

This month we remember both the 500th anniversary of the beginning of the Reformation, and Bible Sunday, so it is a good time to pay tribute to William Tyndale (1494 – 1536). William Tyndale was an English priest and scholar who was the first to translate the Bible into English, and thus give the common person direct access to the Word of God. The Roman Catholic Church and King Henry VIII were furious, and Tyndale fled England for the Continent. Here he completed the Bible, but was finally betrayed, arrested and imprisoned. He was condemned to be strangled and burned at the stake near Brussels. His dying prayer was that God would ‘open the eyes’ of the King, and sure enough – two years later King Henry commissioned the Great Bible for the Church of England – which relied heavily on Tyndale’s version.

Remembering Lord Tennyson

Alfred, Lord Tennyson, the longest-serving British Poet Laureate, died 125 years ago, on 6 October 1892, at the age of 83. Perhaps best known for The Charge of the Light Brigade, he had been Poet Laureate since 1850.

Holding rather unorthodox religious views, ranging from agnosticism to pantheism, he based much of his poetry on classical myths, though one of his most famous works – much admired by Queen Victoria – was In Memoriam A H H, dedicated to his friend Arthur Hallam, after whom his son was named.

Tennyson was born in Somersby, Lincolnshire, the son and grandson of vicars and was known to have spent time in the Skegness area. He married Emily Sellwood in 1850, when he was 40. His attempts at drama were unsuccessful, but he is one of the most quoted and best loved poets in the English language. He was made a Baron in 1884, almost 20 years after initially declining the honour.

What Is Tai Chi

The following description is by Cheng Tin-Hung and Dan Docherty

Tai Chi Chuan is a Chinese form of exercise derived from Taoism, one of China's oldest belief systems. The practice of Tai Chi Chuan is beneficial to health and it is also a subtle, sophisticated and scientific method of self-defence.

Since this system of exercise is suitable for people of all ages and requires little or no special equipment, it has gained an enthusiastic reception all over the world. Tai Chi Chuan evolved to help people improve their physical health, equip them to defend themselves against wild beasts and bandits, and also improve their powers of meditation. In other words, Tai Chi Chuan enables people to survive through fitness and self-defence.

Advantages of practising Tai Chi Chuan are good exercise which enables us to develop a healthy body as well as an alert mind. It is a system of exercise suitable for people of all ages. This exercise requires little or no special equipment. It can be practised in a relatively small area either indoors or outdoors. When performed in a slow and relaxed manner, the Tai Chi Chuan Hand Form offers a balanced drill for the body's muscles and joints through the execution of complex manoeuvres in conjunction with deep regulated breathing and the contraction and expansion of the diaphragm. The deep breathing promoted by the slow practice of the Hand Form causes the diaphragm to expand outwards and downwards and contract inwards and upwards. This movement of the diaphragm gently 'massages' the liver and intestines. Deep breathing also promotes a greater intake of air into the lungs than usual. Thus a greater amount of oxygen is available for consumption which increases blood circulation. In so doing it also expands the blood vessels which serve the heart and intestines. Therefore Tai Chi Chuan helps prevent thrombosis and many other ailments of the heart and intestines. The performance of the Hand Form creates a tranquil state of mind through concentration on the movements. In the long term, Hand Form stimulates the central nervous system, which increases the well-being of all the organs of the body. As our muscles move when practising Tai Chi Chuan, they exert pressure on our veins, forcing our blood to flow towards the heart, improving our circulation. The exercise that the stomach muscles receive will improve the digestion, leading to an increased appetite and the prevention of constipation. The graceful movements of Tai Chi Chuan can lead to changes in our disposition, making us more even-tempered and slow to anger.

Health Aspects

On its simplest level, the Hand Form is an exercise system. However it is not what we, in western culture, usually regard as exercise. How can these slow movements be exercise? In order to understand why, it is good to have a knowledge of the concept of Qi (Chi) energy.

Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM), which is believed to be over 2,000 years old, also has, at its roots, the principles of Yin and Yang. It is believed that there are meridians or pathways which travel through the body carrying Qi energy. If there is a problem, or imbalance in the flow of Qi energy, a TCM doctor would use acupuncture needles, or perhaps acupressure - the use of thumbs or hands, to stimulate acupoints, and release the blockages.

Tai Chi Chuan and more directly, Qigong promotes the smooth flow of this energy. By performing the postures of the Form, in co-ordination with relaxed, natural breathing and the application of Yi, which is the intent or focus of the mind, we help to keep the Qi moving smoothly through the channels. Therefore, whilst doing these external movements, we are assisting the free flow of internal energy.

Aside from promoting the flow of Qi energy Tai Chi Chuan can also help to increase flexibility, suppleness and exercise the muscles. The smooth, gentle movements also aid relaxation and help to keep the mind calm and focused. These benefits are extremely useful in today's stressful society

If you would like to try some tai chi, Brian Mundy runs a class at St. Clements Hall on Thursdays from 11am till noon.
