A Message from the Rector

In early February there is an annual retreat at Walsingham for Priests and Deacons in the Church of England. This year the theme was the Martyrs of the 20th Century. When we think of martyrs, perhaps we think of the Romans throwing Christians to the lions or historic conflict between different faith groups in Medieval Europe. You may be surprised to know that there have been more Christian martyrs in the last century than there have been in total since the days when Christ walked this earth.

There are times when the church stands tall and Christians make a difference to the communities that they serve. From the lists of modern day saints and martyrs you may know the name of Archbishop Oscar Romero who stood up for the ordinary people of San Salvador and was martyred by an assassin's bullet as he stood at his altar in the Cathedral in San Salvador. He knew that he risked his own life by standing up to the corrupt regime. Oscar Romero saw the assassin aiming at him but did not cry out as he did not want people to panic and possibly run in front of him. He accepted his own death and gave his life for the people he served.

Less well known is Edith Stein who became a Carmelite nun. She was born a Jew in Germany but renounced her Jewish faith and went to study philosophy and became an atheist. She then found a calling to the Christian faith and became a Carmelite nun. As the situation became more dangerous in Germany for a Jew, the Carmelite sisters sent her to Holland for her safety. With the German invasion of Holland she was once more in great danger and the Carmelite sisters wanted to send her to Switzerland, but she refused to leave as she wanted to be where she was most needed. The Bishops in Holland did what they could to stop the deportation of Jews but as a reprisal the Nazis arrested Jews who had become Christian and so the SS took Edith Stein and her sister Rosa (also a Carmelite nun) and put them on a transport train to Auschwitz. She was recorded by survivors as being a great help to many on that terrible journey. At a stop in a small village, to replenish water for the engine, a Catholic priest saw that there were people in the cattle wagons and he went over to the wagons. He could make out two Carmelite sisters. Edith pushed a note through the slats of wood saying that they were going to the east or the translation could have meant going to the sun. The priest realised later that she knew that she was going to die and was going to the son of God. On arrival at Auschwitz they were taken to the gas chambers and murdered. Oscar Romero and Edith Stein (Sister Benedicta of the Cross) knew that what they were doing could lead to their own deaths and yet they stayed with the people they loved and cared for. They fulfilled their calling and did what they felt was right. As we move towards Easter, that great Christian festival, sometimes our faith calls for more than a few pounds in a collection plate because some are called by their faith to the same gift that Christ gave for us – life. Life is our most precious commodity and for some the calling is to give it for the sake of others. Our own life is what we are called to give away. Some people say that Christianity is for the weak that it is a crutch for life, but the examples of thousands of martyrs like Oscar Romero and Edith Stein show that the converse is true. We are blessed indeed to live in a society where we respect one another and we can follow any path of faith we wish and without fear of persecution.

May you have a peaceful and blessed Easter.

Revd. Richard G. Holden
Rector Of Skegness

The Cracks Are Where The Light Gets In

The other day I was very cross with myself for getting a parking ticket. I know why it happened – I hadn't looked at the sign and I just assumed there wouldn't be parking restrictions on a Sunday morning. But it really happened because I was preoccupied and rushing. I had too many things to do and not enough time to do everything. The parking ticket was a signal to me that cracks were appearing in my carefully constructed life.

For St Peter it was a cockerel that was the signal that things were going terribly wrong. As we approach Easter we remember the story of how Peter denied Jesus three times. Jesus was arrested at night and Peter followed after him, but then lost his nerve and pretended he didn't know him. When the cockerel crowed, Peter remembered Jesus telling him this would happen and Peter broke down and wept.

Leonard Cohen (1934–2016) in his song 'Anthem' famously writes that 'There is a crack in everything, that's how the light gets in'. When cracks appear in our lives they often signal a time when light can emerge. Peter is usually described as the disciple who denied Jesus three times, but Peter's failure and brokenness is not the end of his story. The light got into Peter's story because of what he remembered in the darkest place and what he learned.

When the cockerel crowed he remembered that Jesus knew him well enough to know that he would let him down. But it wasn't the only thing Peter remembered.

Peter remembered that Jesus predicted that he would suffer and die – it wasn't all his fault. Peter remembered the time when Jesus rescued him from drowning in Lake Galilee and pulled him through. Peter remembered that at the Last Supper Jesus had also told him that he had prayed for him, that his faith would not fail.

After a long dark night the cockerel reminded Peter he had let Jesus down but it also heralded the break of day. Peter's experience and hope meant he was restored and became a great pastor.

My parking ticket signalled a crack which I should notice, and as I have done many times before, readjust my timetable to be more life giving. When you next notice a crack in yourself or another, remember there is a space now, for the light to come in.

THE TOWN COUNCIL NEEDS YOU! – BECOME A COUNCILLOR

The first “Become a Councillor Event” was held in January 2019 and was a real success, around 10 people attended who were interested in representing their town and getting involved. The Town Clerk and Deputy Town Clerk were on hand to answer any questions along with some of the current Town Councillors. After the event there was the opportunity to stay and see the Town Council in action at a Full Council meeting. Don't worry if you missed it, we are holding another event on 6th March 2019, drop in from 5:30pm until 6:45pm to find out if you qualify and what is involved in becoming a Councillor.

“When people with diverse backgrounds, opinions and experiences come together in Council, the Community can be more confident that their views are represented. I would like to see more women and young people putting themselves forward for election” Town Clerk

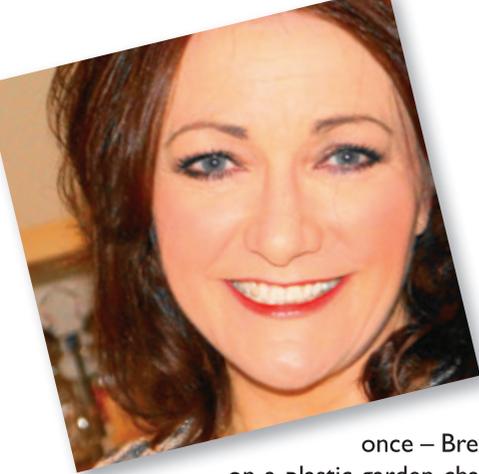

Become a Councillor Event.

TOWER GARDENS COMMUNITY BUILDING BUSINESS PLAN

Progress is being made with the project for a new community building in Tower Gardens. Skegness Town Council now has planning permission in place and the transfer of the Tower Gardens from ELDC to the Town Council is well under way.

At the January meeting of Council, the draft business plan for the project was approved and has now been published on the Council's website. The business plan sets out the Council's vision for the site and how it will deliver the project. It sets out the preliminary costs, and how the risks have been considered and mitigated or reduced.

You can find out more information on the project and read the draft Business Plan on the Community Engagement pages on the Town Council website. Please email us with your comments and feedback on the draft Business Plan.

So here we are, March 2019, hurtling towards a date that will change the course of history! Yes, March 29th, a day never to be forgotten - that's the day my friend begins her maternity leave. Obviously the baby will take a little longer to arrive, but it's fair to say their lives will never be quite the same again!

Oh and there's that other thing. I shall mention it only once – Brexit – what a large lass from Barnsley does when she sits on a plastic garden chair! Thank you social media for that one! It brought a smile to my lips in a way no political discussion ever will. And there's been plenty of that.

I stopped listening sometime around the end of last October – I'll just wait until something is decided and find out then.

But, let's get one thing straight – I didn't vote. I was off school that day and have a note from my mother to prove it. Ok, I was working and therefore unable to attend the polling station. I genuinely don't know which way I'd have jumped if I had, and even less idea what I'd say now, if asked. But no-one's asking, so my inclination is to jump into the future with a war cry and assume it's going to be ok.

I'm old enough to remember decimalisation, but not old enough to have fully grasped 'old' currency. I remember little silver sixpences and chunky threepences, and a very strange system of counting in 12s but it all changed before my pocket money reached 8 new pence a week so I never had to get my calculator to work in base 12 (mainly because they hadn't been invented then.) I'm not sure I ever fully bridged the gap from inches to centimetres – I use both, even today, depending on the size of what I'm trying to measure. But whilst feet and inches make sense to me, yards don't. I still prefer pounds and ounces when cooking – grams are just too small! Likewise, I'm always inclined to use Celsius in the cold but Fahrenheit in the warm, simply because zero or sub-zero tells us whether water is freezing or not, but 82 Fahrenheit sounds so much more impressive than 28 Celsius. Maybe mine was the 'whatever' generation – based on, 'we'll cope, come what may.'

We were all pretty good at maths anyway! Not only were we brought up to deal with a currency rife with nicknames, (shilling, tanner, guinea) that we had to add and subtract in base 12 but every other country had their own currency with vastly different exchange rates. Going on holiday was a truly baffling experience involving not just mental currency conversions but equally baffling time zones (now neatly provided on your mobile phone.) Not that foreign holidays were common place then, most of us were happy to have a week or two at the soggy seaside with a bucket, spade and fishing net.

Is this turning into a 'life was better back then' type of post? I hope not, that certainly wasn't my intention. It was different – and different probably has its upsides as well as its downsides.

I certainly hope so, because life will be different again after March 29th. My friend will have a lot more free time on her hands, that I hope she will use wisely before the little one comes along to fill her days and steal her nights.

A Letter to Lord 'Pie' Woolton - Sunday 2nd March 1941

May Hill drafted this letter to Lord Woolton (well known for the wartime vegetable pie) after writing in her diary about her strong objections to government restrictions on food for pigs – which were often reared as individuals by families in villages around Lincolnshire. The letter may not have been sent, as no reply has been found.

To the Rt Hon Lord Woolton, Minister of Food
Dear Sir

You are I believe the right man in the right place, but if it were not tragic it would be funny the way you are trying to teach us how to feed our pigs and poultry on one grain a day. Surely you know what happened to the old woman's cow when she had just got it to live on one bean a day? It died. I knew that when I was seven. Now you have the power and you have the quislings, commandeer in the name of common sense all the barley, never mind the beer and at once we can produce a tremendous amount of bacon, poultry and eggs. Now pigs don't need the brewing sugar so let the manufacturers and the people have that. It would sweeten those bitter oranges you expect us to make into marmalade without sugar. Only a man would think of such illogical things.

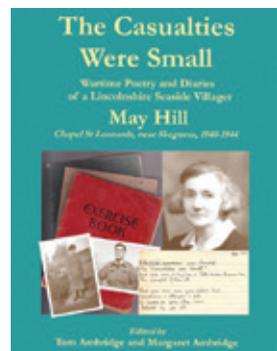

Don't wait to think of the uproar, did you trouble about the children's sweets and the women's chocolate? Did they make a song about it? Surely our men would not be behind us in sacrificing a little luxury. They still get their tobacco and the soldiers get an allowance to pay for it.

Strike now and save our food, release our shipping and if you are thinking of revenue, I am convinced that the saving on shipping and the lessening by at least two-thirds of road and other accidents which would be avoided both civil and military will balance this.

I am a simple country woman but this is how things appear to me. I have no patience with all this running round the question when the remedy is in our hands and you have the power. Leave the consequences to God.

Yours Faithfully, (Mrs.) May Hill

Cursillo

What is Cursillo?

Cursillo (pronounced 'kur see-yo') is a movement of the Church providing a method by which Christians are empowered to grow through prayer, study and action, and enabled to share God's love with everyone.

Archbishop of Canterbury The Most Rev'd Justin Welby wrote: "Through Cursillo the love of God is experienced afresh, an experience which draws us into prayer and compassionate action. Because of this, Cursillo is a much-needed instrument for the renewal of the life of the Church today, and one for which I give thanks."

And the Archbishop of York The Most Rev'd John Sentamu:

"Cursillo is about making disciples; it transforms people's lives and empowers them for service. Cursillo is active in most Dioceses of this Province, for which I praise God."

What is a Cursillo Weekend?

It is a long weekend, usually held at Bishop Grosseteste University.

During these three days, those attending live and work together, listening to a series of talks given by different people, both lay and ordained.

The talks lead to lively discussion in small groups.

Learning, praying, sharing, singing, laughing and living together is the basis for discovering what it means to say, "We are the body of Christ."

What is expected of me?

There is no specific response expected of you. Just be open to what happens! 'Let go. Let God'

The Next Weekend is Lincoln #35
Friday 21st to Monday 24th of June 2019

If you would like to know more, speak to Reverend Michelle in person or ring 07986 433357

Or look at our diocesan website: <http://lincolnCursillo.btck.co.uk/>

We have members of Cursillo who are happy to come and talk to Deanery Synods and Churches.
